

Mid Project report

Currently, the front end of the project is almost completely put together. The reactJS workspace was difficult to set up because you had to choose what dependancies you wanted where in other frameworks, I feel as if all the dependencies you need are already there.

Once the front end is complete, the backend will begin. Still need to decide which backend language to use and how to implement it with ReactJS.

We are thinking NodeJS? Because they are both JS? Not sure yet. Definitely need to do a bit more reading.

Below is the Github link, in case you want to follow the project — as well as some screenshots of the workspace and the front end pages.

https://github.com/leemartinc/ReactJS_e-library

